Our function is to provide advancement to those rights through impact litigation, research and public advocacy, inviting all firearm owners to participate in the political process through legislative action and grassroots activism.

The Board has appointed Mark Cheeseman as President, Jay Factor as Executive Vice President, Joe LoPorto as Director of Legal Operations, Jason Kleinman as Director of Communications and Ray Rodriguez as Director of Development.

NJFOS will be partnering with many of our State and National 2nd Amendment organizations to further existing challenges to New Jersey's unconstitutional gun laws and to launch new challenges in several key areas.

NJFOS expects to launch its first major fundraising campaign by the first week of October after which the organization will immediately get to work taking down the myriad of unconstitutional laws and regulations that infringe on the rights of citizens across this State.
